Homework: Students will be assigned readings. Some readings will have reading worksheets; most readings will require students to “actively read,” and some readings will be followed by short answer responses. Some readings will require the students to utilize “Cornell note-taking.” The Cornell note-taking system will be an essential skill to better understand and break down key written content. Please plan on a minimum of seven hours of homework per week. There will be weeks where more work will be necessary. In most cases, work will be due 3-7 days out rather than the next day. It is the student’s responsibility to plan their time accordingly. This is a crucial study skill necessary for college. Late work after the beginning of the period the work is due will receive a maximum of 50% credit and will be due no later than one week after the due date.

In-Class Essay Exams: Each semester there will be two major examinations consisting of three questions each covering different content areas of the course as well as analysis of two primary source documents. These will be a timed 98 minutes to complete the exam and it will be structured with a thesis paragraph, supporting paragraphs and concluding paragraph for each question and the origin/purpose/value/limitation analysis of the primary sources

Research Papers: Each semester the students will complete out of class two papers dealing with content from the class. The students will be assigned different aspects of a content area and there will be class time in the library for research. The word count will be between 1500-2000 words each and a separate rubric will detail the grading.

Presentations: Students will be expected to research topics and present information on the subject assigned to the class twice each semester. This will be done individually and will be limited to 20-30 minutes per presentation. The students will utilize power points to support their presentation. The Nations and Nation Building presentation will be in groups of two.

Quizzes and TWEDYAWTS: Quizzes and TWEDYATS (To What Degree Do You Agree With This Statement) will be given on readings to check for understanding of class lectures and activities. These will also be used to ensure understanding in the reading of the textbooks. Students will be able to use only Cornell Notes for the quizzes.

Classwork and homework: In order to further the students’ understanding of the content, we will work in groups and discuss in Socratic format key historical events and the interpretation of those events through use of the Course Companion book and outside readings.

Final Exam: Each semester the students will sit for a final exam covering all content for that semester. There will be two questions that will be formulated from previous IB examinations and the students will be assessed based on IB grading.

THE NOTEBOOK

Notebook: Students are REQUIRED to maintain an IB History of the Americas notebook. Again, there will be random checks on the maintenance of the notebook. Students must use a large three ring binder for their notebook. The notebook is to be organized in the following manner:

Section 1	Class info	Section 2	Ind. Movements
Section 3	Amer. Civil War	Section 4	Guided Age
Section 5	Great Depression	Section 6	Post WWII
Section 7	Cold War	Section 8	Civil Rights
Section 9	Review		Movement

The notebook is an important record of the student's work and will be valuable tool throughout the year. Notebooks must be organized, accurate, complete, and neat at all times. All written exams and research papers should be in the relevant section at the end of the section. If the student misses class, it is their responsibility to get the notes from classmates and/or ask the teacher for the information missed. Again, the notebook will be randomly checked without advanced notice. The grade will be equivalent to a homework grade. BE CAREFUL WITH YOUR NOTEBOOK. THIS IS THE STUDENT'S RECORD OF WORK FOR THE CLASS!

Students should bring these items every day: Textbook(s), notebook, college-ruled paper, a pen (blue/black ink) and #2 pencil. You should also have colored pencils.

Students should make use of the CLASS SUMMARY BOARD AND THE MAKE-UP BOARD. Checking is the student's responsibility. MAKE-UP TESTS ARE GIVEN DURING TUESDAY LUNCH IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING THE ABSENCE.
